MAN BEHIND DOGRI RADIO IN JAMMU

It was the sight of a dog on television that got me interested in the language. In 1994, a news channel in India started broadcasting a show on the Dogra tribe, an ethnic group in Jammu. I was fascinated by the language spoken by the Dogras, which is known as Dogri. I decided to learn the language and use it to promote the culture of Jammu.

Fetching the property and preparing the house for the filming was a hard task. The property had to be ready for the shoot within a few months. This meant that I had to work all day and night to make sure that everything was in place.

There was a small crisis in Jammu, but it was resolved. The crisis was a result of the language being a barrier to communication. However, with the help of the Dogri community, the crisis was resolved.

The Dogri language is a challenging language to learn. However, with the help of the Dogri community, I was able to learn the language and use it to promote the culture of Jammu.

The Dogri language is spoken by the Dogra tribe in Jammu. The Dogri language is a dialect of the Dogra language. The Dogri language is spoken by the Dogra tribe in Jammu. The Dogri language is a dialect of the Dogra language.

FESTIVAL BEYOND AFFILIATIONS

While India is a land of composite multilethic cultures, the festivals celebrated across the nation are unique and region specific or even community specific. It is a common perception that people from all walks of life irrespective of their regional or community affiliations, yet certain festivals are that not at all specific to any community or region. One such festival celebrated by people across the country is the festival of Dusshera which is also called Mohatotsav. The festival is being celebrated by all the communities in the country. The celebrations of this festival is set for the plantation drives to gain momentum across the nation. The week has been chosen deliberately because during these days and thereafter, monsoon showers facilitate the growth of tree saplings. The aim of Van Mahotsav is to formulate and launch pro- grammes to increase the green cover by encouraging massive plantation drives in the entire country. For this it is necessary that focused and concerted efforts are made to preserve the green cover of the nation especially in the newly formed Union Territory of Jammu and Kashmir. Though not much enthusiasm could be witnessed this year most probably due to COVID-19 pandemic, yet given the plantation drives last year and the sporadic driving across till date, it is surely going to help in arresting the extensive environmental degradation that has taken place over decades across this UT especially when it was a Slate. It is an acknowledged fact that this state has been paying a heavy price for the environmental degradation that has resulted in multiple hazards linked to it. If we want to save this Union Territory from the environmental hazards then we need to realize that afforestation is the only option and needs to be taken up vigorously by one and all. This is one of the most significant responsibilities of every individual towards the society.

Common people must realize that their role in this legal and political process of state governance is most important in preserving environmental activities. On account of lack of green cover or forests not only the ecosystem of the animal kingdom but also the delicate balance of nature gets disturbed to dangerous levels of which the present day drought and floods are great indicators and need to be taken quite seriously. It is a reality that afforestation can go a long way in reversing the climate change effect.

According to environmental activist Amrita Devi Bishnoi if a tree is saved even at the cost of one’s head, it’s worth it. This is the reason why in India multiple species of trees are traditionally worshipped besides there being so many festivals related to trees in different communities across the country. Van Mahotsav was started by Sardar Vallabhbhai K. Muni, the then minister for Agriculture and Food to create enthusiasm among masses for forest conservation and planting trees in different parts of India. It was started as a crusade with the purpose of saving the mother earth. It is hoped that now the newly formed Union Territory being presently under the administration of Lieutenant Governor G.C. Murmu will flag afforestation as one of the priorities and formulate a multipronged strategy to augment the Van Mahotsav. It is imperative for this green cover in this Union Territory gets restored to its pristine glory.

T hrough the medium of your esteemed daily, I am writing this letter to bring to your notice a matter that is completely pertinent to local politics in Jammu and Kashmir. I am writing this letter under the aegis of the political party of our choice and wish to apprise you of the same.

India has always been a democracy, a country that is governed by the people and for the people. The freedom from the clutches of colonial rule and our independence in 1947 was an esteemed feat that every Indian would always be proud of. Over the years, the Indian political system has been seen to be the most established in the world, with the most transparent and free elections. However, with each passing day, it has been evident that the essence of democracy is being violated and we need to think twice before acting and standing for the flag the country.
